The book follows the Chinese adage according to which 'a picture is worth a thousand words'. The last decennium the author developed the habit to take his camera consistently to the operating room, which formed the basis for the many intraoperative open structure rhinoplasty photographs in full color.

The text is divided in small chapters that were written in pearl form and joined up in a string-like manner. Numerous comprehensible schematic drawings help to elucidate the text.

The vision displayed in this book will hopefully serve as a role model for the young surgeon to develop his/her own strategy for obtaining consistently good results in the treatment of Caucasian and Mediterranean rhinoplasty cases.
